PREMATURE EJACULATION

CAUSES & NATURAL REMEDY

Dr. Bestman Anyatonwu

MEANING

Premature ejaculation is a very common sexual problem, particularly for young men. Ejaculation is considered to be premature when semen is released from the penis before or very shortly after penetration and with minimal sexual stimulation.

Experience of premature Ejaculation is part of the normal sexual learning curve; inexperienced men have particularly if they are young.

The problem may also occur in experienced men when they have intercourse after a long period of abstinence from sex.

Recurrent premature ejaculation can be a frustrating problem; repeated episodes may make a man anxious about his performance and possibly result in erectile dysfunction.

CAUSES

The causes of premature ejaculation are usually psychological. Problem may include anxiety about performance or result from early sexual experiences in which there was a fear of being discovered.

Premature ejaculation is more common during the early stages of a sexual relationship, when the partners may lack confidence.

Rarely, premature ejaculation may be caused by a physical disorder such as inflammation of the prostate gland.
